

Spelling Shark 7

History shows us that at the start of the 14th century, there was a particular group of guards who had a peculiar strength. They weren't considered to be ordinary because they were able to increase their weight and height to surprise their enemies. They were thought to be at the centre of a popular circle of various knights, guards and soldiers who were supposed to be in the possession of some very dangerous powers. Although people had heard their friends describing these different activities, they found it impossible to actually imagine them happening. However, the guards began to find it more and more difficult to make their changes and therefore began to wonder if perhaps they shouldn't continue. One significant reason they had to decide what to do was because of the impact the changes were having on their hearts. Through many discussions, they had to consider their position carefully and had to be certain about their decision. The inner circle was guiding them carefully with their decision making, though the advice wasn't always helpful. In the end, they decided to do the complete opposite to the advice they had been given and began looking for new ways to frighten their enemies.